

I PROMISE I SWEAR

TMP22

300 DPI - AI,PDF or EPS

Please don't drop art on template layer.

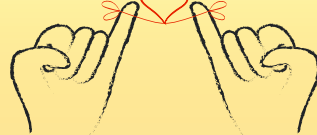

All type in curves

Red line for crop.

Allow 1/4" bleed on card.

Custom band debossed or silk screened

Pinky Promise  Pinky Swear™

Locking pinkies and making a promise is a commitment to keep your word. Whether the promise is to yourself, your cause, your family, friends or organization, your word is your bond.

Robert Frost reminds us:

"But I have promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep..."

This ring is a symbol of your promise and commitment. In nations like Japan, a pinky promise is so strong, that failure to keep it has profound consequences. By wearing this ring, you reinforce your promise, your word.. which is your bond.

"Losers make promises they often break. Winners make commitments they always keep".

Denis Waitly

In the United States, the pinky swear has existed since at least 1860, when Dictionary of Americanisms listed the following accompanying promise:

*Pinky, pinky bow-bell,
Whoever tells a lie
Will sink down to the bad place
And never rise up again.*

Wikipedia

©Soundline ASI 88241 SAGE#50013

2.5" x3.75"